

Health and Safety Software

Attention to health and safety makes good business sense and results into benefits as morale and productivity will rise, risks to employees are reduced, businesses enjoy greater efficiency, incidents are less likely to arise, unscheduled absences and illness will be reduced, businesses will see a lower staff turnover, insurance costs are lower, the 'bottom line' will be improved as businesses have to pay for fewer accidents and injuries, businesses need not fear reputational damage, businesses can tender to work using a strong safety performance record.

The mobile application enables field workers without connectivity to effectively and efficiently enter data into the client's system without the fear of creating synchronization issues. With the addition of the mobile application, the functionality can be extended to the field, remote and offline workers to increase user adoption and enhance the completeness of data capture and reporting.
